Attached is a file that [REDACTED] reminded us of. We provided it to you previously during one of our meetings. I've highlighted in yellow the line that shows that the NYSDOH (in December 2002) took 30-day measurements of radon concentrations in all rooms within Lew-Port school buildings. The results showed that radon levels were all below EPA guidelines and NYSDOH determined no further action regarding indoor radon levels is needed.

You may be able to request these results from the state if you no longer have them.

Thank-you very much. I am pretty sure we have radon measurements for the inside of our buildings from a contractor we have been using since we had problems with mold in one of our facilities. Don has also asked our BOCES to see if they couldn't put together a COSER to do testing each year. We will have something in place one way or another. I appreciate you getting back to me. See you guys soon.

Following up from our phone call this afternoon, the web link to our 2010 NFSS Environmental Surveillance Technical Memorandum is:

<<http://www.lrb.usace.army.mil/fusrap/nfss/envsurv/nfss-envsurv-techmemo2010-2011-12.pdf>> >

The results for Radon Gas Concentrations are in Table 3 on page T-11. The location on school grounds is monitoring location 105 and the results are non-detect.

The 24 hour radon flux results are on page T-13. The location on school grounds is monitoring location 181 and the results are non-detect.

These results are for outside air though.
