

LISA MASSEY — Niagara Gazette

The World War II-era building on the Niagara Falls Storage Site, formerly the Army's Lake Ontario Ordnance Works, was purposely designed to look like a barn as camouflage from spy planes. Coal was once stored in the silos.