

Guterl Steel becomes Army Corps site

The Buffalo district of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has been assigned the former Guterl Specialty Steel Corp. in Lockport as a site eligible for potential inclusion in the Formerly Utilized Sites Remedial Action Program.

The program was begun in 1974 to identify, investigate and clean up or control sites that were part of the nation's early atomic energy program. The Army district would like to hear from employees who worked at the site. If willing to volunteer information, call 800-833-6390. The Guterl Specialty Steel site was once known as Simonds Saw and Steel Co.